

Active CPD

CPD Actif, a company set up by Roger Scott and Colin Mitchell, two vets in practice, is expanding the range of courses that it offers. The CPD available combines three elements – active learning techniques, personal development and adventurous training – which the company's founders claim makes their CPD 'uniquely effective'.

CPD Actif will be offering three different courses in January 2015, in Samoëns in France. The courses available are 'Top flight career or domestic bliss – both please', 'Perfect plans, successful schemes and catchy contracts – give farmers something they actually want' and 'Corporate takeovers, the universe and everything'. Further details are available at www.cpdactif.com

Alongside the CPD, participants will be able to try their hand at wine tasting and cookery classes, acquire ICT skills and some barista training. They will also have a chance to ski the Grand Massif, or go snow boarding or experience some husky trails.
